CREATION CARE & ENVIRONMENTAL JUSTICE Member-at-Large

The National Episcopal Church Women organization is seeking a volunteer leader to join its dynamic Board of Directors as its authority on Creation Care and Environmental Justice.

Upon recent review of our board skills, we are seeking to fill this position with a leader who will broaden our current board by bringing knowledge of the National Church's views, policies, historical actions and commitment to the theme of Creation Care and Environmental Justice. For this reason, we encourage applications from individuals with knowledge and experience in the field, with the ability to develop, locate and maintain resources, and collaborate with individuals and organizations to further the cause for environmental stewardship. Knowledge of social media and other communication platforms, plus proficiency in creating educational and advocacy events will be highly regarded as a means to engage Episcopal women in meaningful conversation. Our objective is to create understanding of the environment, sustainability practices and socially just advocacy for all of God's creations.

Board members are actively involved in organizational governance and are expected to attend all board meetings which will occur in-person, three (3) times annually through 2027, and virtually, as necessary. Airfare, lodging and other travel expenses are covered by NECW. Members are required to participate in at least one other committee of the board and to attend virtual meetings as called for by its chair.

The next board meeting is in Billings, Montana, May 1 to 5, 2025.

The committee is accepting nominations until April 1. If interested in serving on this Board, see the position description and complete the nomination forms with the necessary signatures as found on our website. Submit them with a photo and resumé to the address provided.
